Goodwin argues that Christ's heart is the perfect reflection of the Father's love. It is a heart that overflows with grace, forgiveness, and an unquenchable desire to save the lost.

Unveiling Unconditional Love

At the core of "The Heart of Christ" is the revelation of God's unconditional love. Goodwin emphasizes that Christ's love is not dependent on our worthiness or performance. It is a love that is freely given to all who come to him in faith.

This unconditional love is the driving force behind Christ's redemptive work on the cross. He willingly sacrificed himself not only to pay the penalty for our sins but also to restore our broken relationship with God.

Infinite Mercy and Tender Compassion

Alongside the theme of unconditional love, Goodwin also explores Christ's infinite mercy and tender compassion. He shows that Christ's heart is filled with pity for the sinner and a deep longing to heal the brokenhearted.

Goodwin writes: "The heart of Christ is a fountain of mercy, open to all that come unto him, even the vilest and the worst of sinners. He has compassion on them, he pities them, he forgives them."
